

Job Posting: Nursing Advisor, Registration Services, April, 2024

Our Mission: To protect the public through the regulation of Registered Nurses and Nurse Practitioners

Established through The Registered Nurses Act, 1988 and driven by values that focus on the protection of the people of Saskatchewan, the College of Registered Nurses of Saskatchewan (CRNS) is the profession-led regulatory body for the province's 13,300 Registered Nurses (RN), Nurse Practitioners (NP) and Registered Nurses with Additional Authorized Practice [RN(AAP)]. The CRNS sets high standards for nursing education, practice and registration including initial and ongoing licensure requirements, practice standards, approval of nursing programs, continuing competence requirements and professional conduct mechanisms such as complaints investigation and the discipline process.

To contribute to this tradition and advance quality, competent nursing care in Saskatchewan, the College is seeking a full-time permanent:

Nursing Advisor, Registration Services

Reporting to the Director, Registration Services and Professional Conduct, the Nursing Advisor, Registration Services position plays a central role in the assessment, review, approval, and processing of registration and licensure. CRNS employees provide advice and guidance to registrants, potential registrants and other stakeholders.

As a registered nurse (RN) leader, you aspire to make a difference in your profession. You possess the leadership skills to enhance and promote safe, ethical and competent RN practice. Your open, engaging and decisive communication style with registrants, employers, external stakeholders and the public demonstrates your professionalism, accountability and responsibility to the registration process.

As a registered nurse (RN) leader, you possess strong critical thinking to successfully facilitate the registration process ensuring consistent application of policies, procedures, and practices. You provide evidence-based leadership in responding to questions about nursing regulation, writing CRNS documents and delivering education to registrants. You are proficient in obtaining, analyzing and summarizing information. You assess, evaluate and determine eligibility for RN, RN(AAP) and NP licensure; counsel/communicate with RNs, NPs, stakeholders and members of the public regarding RN and NP regulatory and legislative issues. You act as advisor to staff advisory committees as assigned. You may also represent the CRNS on national, provincial, and local committees regarding nursing regulation and health policy.

Education/Experience

- Current licensure with the CRNS or eligibility to obtain licensure with the CRNS.
- Master's degree in Nursing or related field, as well as thorough and specialized knowledge in a program or service area to facilitate service or policy design, development and evaluation.
- Excellent skills and abilities in issue identification as well as resolution, counselling and facilitation.
- Experience (approximately 4 years or more) working in one or more of the domains of nursing as an RN or NP.

CRNS offers a competitive salary and benefits. Qualified candidates are invited to apply. The position is in Regina and some travel is required. The CRNS provides a hybrid work environment.
